

ASGS

ASSOCIATION OF
STATE GIRLS' SCHOOLS

Leading girls' learning

Our Mission

The ASGS is a leading advocate for girls' education with a distinct commitment to the transformative power of all-girls schools. The ASGS acts at the forefront of educational thought, collaborating and connecting globally with individuals, schools, and organisations dedicated to empowering girls to be influential contributors to the world.

About ASGS

- Serves over 200 girls' schools, 160,000 students and 18,000 educators since the early 20th century.
- Consists of state schools, academies, denominational schools, all ability and selective.
- Provides resources such as research on girls' educations, performance outcomes, and facts and figures.
- Creates a forum for rich, informed conversation through networking, events, and social media.

Here's what we offer our members:

Professional Development

- Convenes national conferences on girls' education and offers opportunities for our member schools to showcase their programmes.
- Connects our members with international experts on girls' education.
- Gives access to pilot programmes and unique curricular opportunities to our members.
- Offers online resources for educating girls and promotes best practices.
- Offers mentoring for newly appointed headteachers.

Networking

- Lists our member schools and provides a searchable directory on our website.
- Sends an e-newsletter to members containing valuable information for heads, development, marketing, admissions, topics of interest.
- Publicises notable member school news on our website and through social media.
- Posts job openings for our member schools on our website.
- Hosts termly seminars in London.

Research

- Provides benchmarking data and analysis of trends to our member schools.
- Collaborates with researchers working on issues of importance to girls' education and girls' schools.
- Tracks prevailing research to keep our member schools up-to-date with the latest findings.

Advocacy

- Promotes a common language that clearly conveys the distinctive value of girls' schools.
- Provides a list of common claims against single-sex schools and talking points that refute each claim.
- Builds strategic alliances with a network of individuals and agencies in education, government, business, research, and other girl-oriented groups.
- Represents girls' schools at national and international conferences.
- Offers materials for prospective families on the advantages of girls' schools.

Website: www.asgs.org.uk

Email: Info@asgs.org.uk

 @ASGS25

